EST. 1841.
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1881.

Our readers will remember that after the demise of the late much lamented Chief Justice, we expressed a layman's view that the Supreme Court was not constituted as the Constitution requires and that the vacancy was filled. A contemporary disagreed with us, but we had the satisfaction of learning that the members of the bar expressed the same view in their arguments on cases in court, and that the court itself practically held the same ground, in declining to hear any more cases. The benches for the October term of the Supreme Court have all gone over until the January term, by common consent between bench and bar, and for the simple reason that there is not a constitutional tribunal to hear them. We look to the King's return for a speedy appointment to fill the vacancy.
